Reconnect & Reunite with the

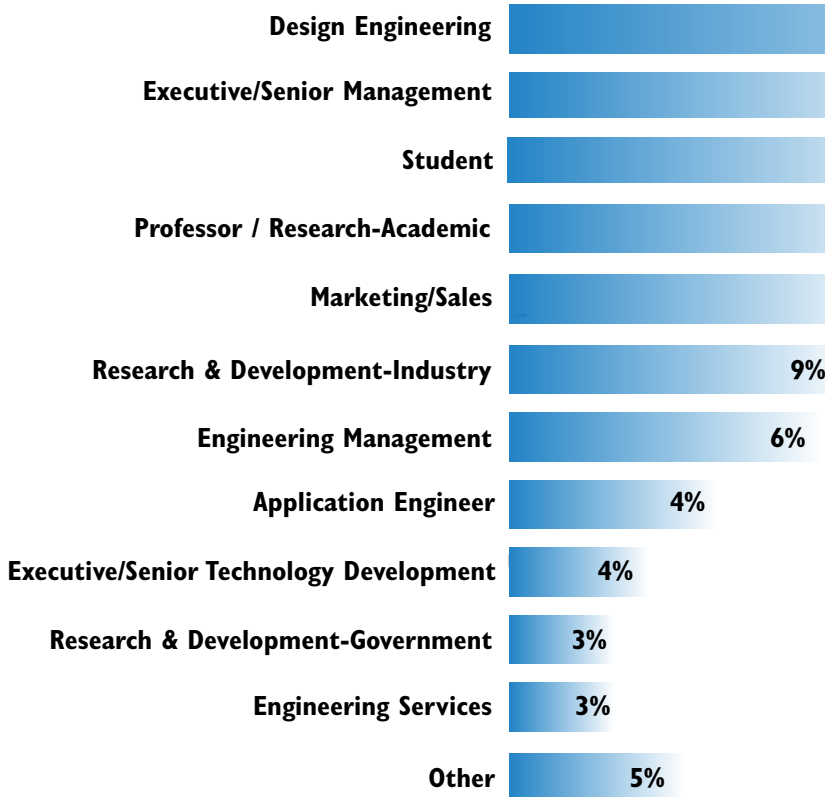

Why IMS2022?

Be part of the action at this not-to-be-missed event as microwave engineering professionals from across the globe reunite at the premier technical conference and tradeshow. There is no better opportunity to meet face-to-face with thousands of microwave and RF engineers who are buying and developing materials, devices, components, systems, design and simulation software as well as test and measurement equipment for products operating from RF to THz.

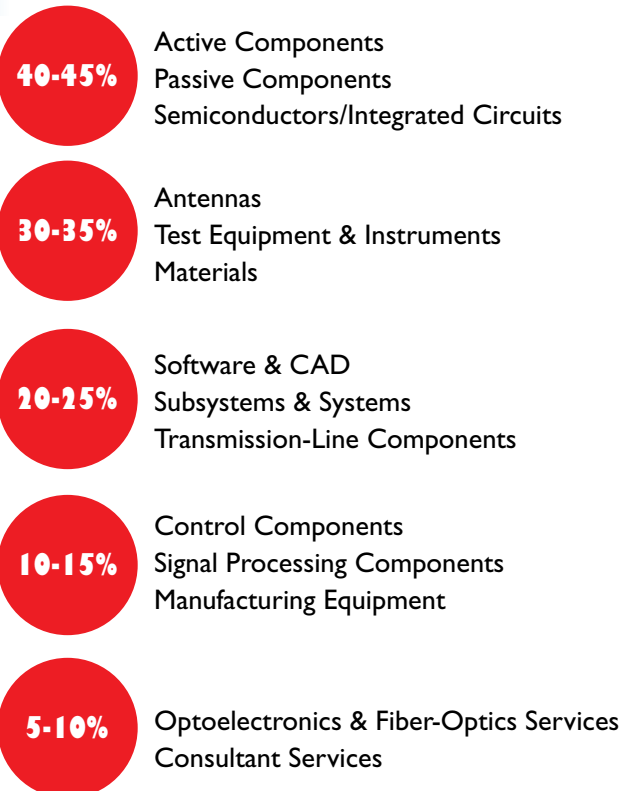

For 65 years, this community has been coming together from over 50 countries to learn, discover, collaborate and network with thousands of like-minded colleagues. The International Microwave Symposium is the world's largest event for microwave professionals seeking cutting-edge, hands-on learning and networking opportunities.
